Passports and Passages

Conversations About Developmental Writing

Friday
April 28, 2006
9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The College of Southern Idaho
Blaine County Center

Developmental English inhabits a kind of borderlands, a place where students have not yet discovered their identities as students or as writers. Join secondary teachers and college instructors in discussing ways that writing can empower students in transitioning from high school to college, from outsiders to members of the academic community.
